

BERKELEY INSTITUTE FOR YOUNG AMERICANS DIGITAL PRESS KIT

WHO WE ARE

The Berkeley Institute for Young Americans seeks to make national, state, and local policy sustainable and fair across generations. Our mission is to lead a fact-based, non-partisan discussion about how best to invest in future generations. The Institute aims to develop research-driven policy proposals to equip policymakers, advocates, and young leaders with the solutions needed to ensure the long-term security and success of the next generation.

BERKELEY INSTITUTE FOR YOUNG AMERICANS

HISTORY

The Berkeley Institute for Young Americans was founded in 2015 to bring together scholars at the Goldman School of Public Policy at UC Berkeley, and around the country, to address issues of generational inequity in a fact-based and non-ideological fashion. The central purpose of the Institute is to address a key question:

How can we ensure that we invest fairly in future generations so that young people will have ample opportunities for successful and productive lives?

OBJECTIVES

Become a Leader for Research on Young Americans

We produce research that identifies economic, social, and political trends unique to young generations.

Produce Policy Impact in California and Beyond

We design research-driven policy proposals to equip policymakers, advocates, and young leaders with the solutions needed to ensure the long-term security of the next generation.

Engage Young Leaders

We host events and seminars to bring together young leaders, academics, policymakers, and other key stakeholders to engage with the latest research and policy developments affecting young Americans.
